

Cognitive Functions

Cognitive functions are the technical term for “Modes of processing information and making decisions based on your Myers-Briggs type.” Each type has four (out of a possible eight) cognitive functions, which they use in a specific order. Identifying which functions you use – and in what order – is the most accurate way to type yourself or anyone else.

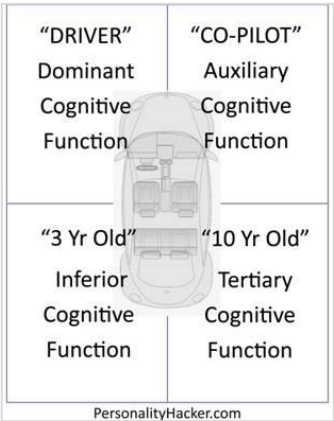

ISTJ Functions ISTJ Primary Processes

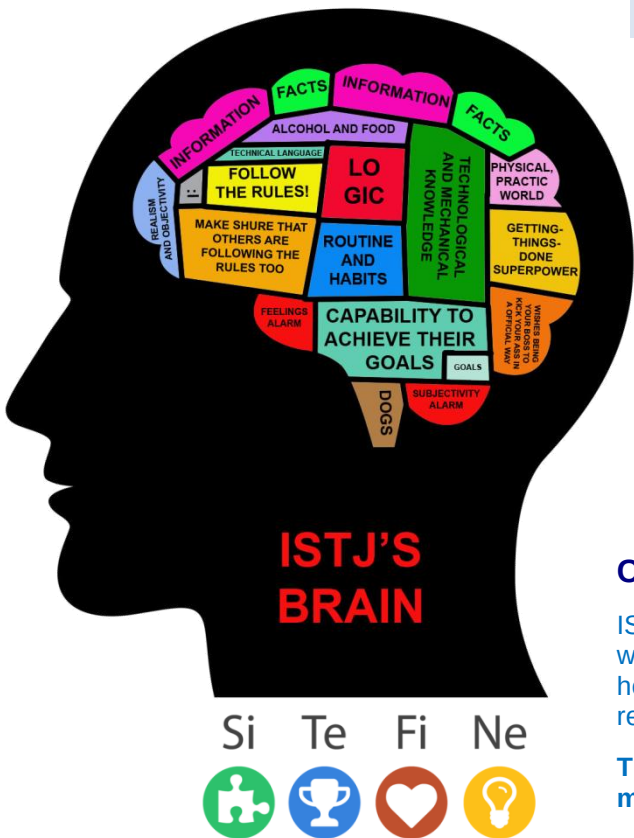

Role	Process	Snapshot
Leading "Driver"	Introverted Sensing	Reviewing and recalling past experiences and seeking detailed data
Supportive "Co-Pilot"	Extroverted Thinking	Segmenting, organising for efficiency, and systematising
Relief "10 year old"	Introverted Feeling	Valuing and considering importance, beliefs, and worth
Aspirational "3 year old"	Extroverted iNtuition	Interpreting situations and relationships and pickup meanings and interconnections to other contexts

The analogy of a car is a useful model when thinking about cognitive functions. The first function is the 'driver' of the personality type and is the function from which perspective of all of the other functions follow. It provides the direction and speed. The second function is the 'co-pilot', which navigates around or through any difficulties encountered. The inferior, or 3 year old, function attempts to distract both primary and secondary functions whereas the tertiary function, or '10 year old', only distracts the current dominant function.

Understanding cognitive functions is imperative to understanding type. The four-letter dichotomies cannot possibly explain the complexity of our personalities – we are all thinkers, feelers, sensors and intuitives in various situations. The cognitive functions allow us to understand when we use each function and how it impacts our decision-making process.

The Cognitive Functions

Role	Process	Snapshot
Ne	Extroverted Intuition	How do concepts happen outside me?
Ni	Introverted Intuition	How do concepts happen within me?
Fe	Extroverted Feeling	How does this make others feel?
Fi	Introverted Feeling	Experiencing and acting in the immediate context.
Te	Extroverted Thinking	How does this logically affect things?
Ti	Introverted Thinking	How does this logically affect me?
Se	Extroverted Sensing	How is the environment outside me?
Si	Introverted Sensing	How is the environment inside me?

CONCLUSION

ISTJ Examiners are service-oriented. They strive to help others in whatever role they play. They take responsibility seriously and honour their commitments. They fulfil duties without seeking recognition.

Their greatest contribution is their ability to work hard and to make sacrifices to keep society running smoothly.

What is MBTI?

Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) is a tool that helps people gain insights about themselves and how they interact with others—and improve how they communicate, learn, and work.

Often referred to as a 'personality test', MBTI actually has less to do with one's personality and everything to do with how their brain works from receiving and processing external information to communication preferences. These preferences are split into four pairs – I/E, S/N, F/T and J/P. Though everyone is unique and will have some traits of all 8 letters, people will often be more inclined towards one letter in each pair. By determining your preference in each group, and putting these four letters together, you get your personality type code – for you, this is ISTJ.

ISTJ – The Inspector What does that mean?

- Introverted Energised by quiet time alone
- Sensing Pays attention to facts and details
- Thinking Prioritises logic and reason
- Judging Prefers structure and order

ISTJs are responsible organisers, driven to create and enforce order within systems and institutions. They are neat and orderly, inside and out, and tend to have a procedure for everything they do. Reliable and dutiful, ISTJs want to uphold tradition and follow regulations. Driven by thought, they make decisions with their head, but tend to be objective in doing so. ISTJs are emotionally controlled, structured, scheduled and organised. Seeking closure, completing tasks brings them great satisfaction.

ISTJs are steady, productive contributors. Although they are Introverted, ISTJs are rarely isolated; typical ISTJs know just where they belong in life, and want to understand how they can participate in established organisations and systems.

They concern themselves with maintaining the social order and making sure that standards are met.

ISTJs like to know what the rules of the game are, valuing predictability more than imagination. They rely on their past experience to guide them, and are most comfortable in familiar surroundings. ISTJs trust the proven method, and appreciate the value of dedicated practice to build confidence in their skills.

Strengths

- Honest and Direct – Integrity is the heart of the ISTJ personality type.
- Strong-willed and Dutiful –Patient and determined, people with the ISTJ personality type meet their obligations, period.
- Very Responsible – ISTJs' word is a promise, and a promise means everything. Calm and Practical –they keep their feet on the ground and make clear, rational decisions. ISTJs work to make the best use of individual qualities, but these decisions are made with effectiveness in mind more so than empathy.
- Create and Enforce Order – The primary goal of any ISTJ is to be effective in what they've chosen to do, and they believe that this is accomplished best when everyone involved knows exactly what is going on and why. Unclear guidelines and people who break established rules undermine this effort, and are rarely tolerated by ISTJs.
- Jacks-of-all-trades –ISTJs are proud repositories of knowledge, though the emphasis is more on facts and statistics than concepts and underlying principles.

Weaknesses

- Arrogant – Stubborn – The facts are the facts, and ISTJs tend to resist any new idea that isn't supported by them.
- Insensitive – ISTJ personalities may take emotions into consideration, but really only so far as to determine the most effective way to say what needs to be said.
- Always by the Book – ISTJs believe that things work best with clearly defined rules, but this makes them reluctant to bend those rules or try new things, even when the downside is minimal.
- Judgmental – ISTJs are unlikely to respect people who disagree with facts, or especially those who remain wilfully ignorant of them.
- Often Unreasonably Blame Themselves – Often believing they are the only ones who can see projects through reliably, ISTJ's tend to see responsibility for failure as theirs alone to bear.
